EDITORIAL

ABOUT THIS ISSUE...

The role of the bibliographer is a hard and lonely one. After compiling and arranging in logical order, his subject matter he finds staggering errors both of commission and omission. The things he should have done but didn't, the things he could have done but wouldn't all come to plague him at the supposed conclusion of his labor.

This issue represents a "second series" (hence the changed logo this issue) for the Journal of Science Fiction which enables the staff to: present a special issue for the Tenth World Science Fiction Convention, fulfills the promise in the first issue of having three issues a year, and complements the forthcoming huge magazine index of Don Day covering 1926 to 1950. Should our subscribers object to this type of issue, it will not be repeated. Like a telephone directory, an index can be very boring but also extremely useful. Our final justification for this index is that we felt if we didn't do it, no one else would.

Not covered by this index are the reprint and irregular English magazines, the Australian magazine, Thrills, Inc. and the off-trail American magazine Fate.

The magazines are arranged chronologically by issues. Example:

OTHER WORLDS SCIENCE STORIES

January 1951 (9)	James Settles	3-1
*Courtesy Call	A. R. Steber	10M Settles

Explanation: The January 1951 issue of Other Worlds was number one of volume three and the ninth issue since its inception. James Settles did the cover which illustrated the story "Courtesy Call" written by A. R. Steber (one of Raymond A. Palmer's pen-names) which was about ten thousand words long and also illustrated inside by Settles

Code:	A	article
	M	thousands (length of story)
	N	novel
	Na	novella (used only by Galaxy)
	NV	novelette
	P	pictorial feature
	SR	serial
	SS	short story
	V	verse

The next issue of the JSF will have a fine article on British paperbacks by Captain Kenneth F. Slater, a rebuttal to Sam Moskowitz's article "The Case Against Modern Science Fiction" plus a number of other articles on hand or forthcoming. If finances permit, there may be some photographs of the Tenth World Science Fiction Convention.
